

Roll Review

Part One

by
MICHAEL SKINNER

Foreword by James Blades, O.B.E.

Roll Review is a book for every ardent snare drummer and, indeed, for all interested in percussive art. The main object of this exemplarily produced tutor is the attainment and the maintaining of the numerous exercises dealing with the Double Stroke Roll, the author (an internationally recognised percussionist and tutor) has adroitly interwoven Single Stroke routines, Paradiddles, Grace Notes and modern techniques. The combination of these several factors makes this tome of exercises, examples and explanatory text a book to stimulate the beginner, enthuse the tyro, and fascinate the most seasoned and experienced performer.

Few will deny that the Double Beat Roll is the foundation rudiment of snare drum technique and that as a timpanist is judged by his tone, so a snare drum player is judged by his roll. Also, it cannot be denied that the slog to close the roll (however worthy) is not the most absorbing of the many snare drum rudiments: but in Roll Review Michael Skinner has taken the pain out of "the daily dozen".

The book is divided into two parts. Part One opens with a lucid introduction, followed by 131 exercises and 32 solos which employ in various metres, the 5, 7, 9, 11, 13, and 17 stroke rolls, and concludes with a short summary. Each group of roll exercises is followed by a solo employing several time signatures. These solos which could be termed "mix-ups", make interesting and progressive reading exercises. They could be described as intoxicating and care should be taken not to jump ahead to see what is next. In Part Two there are seven chapters dealing with concert snare drum technique, Jazz and Latin American drumming, the multiple bounce or buzz roll and techniques useful to the Pipe Band drummer.

Roll Review is in my opinion, one of the finest additions to modern percussion literature to date. It is a valuable book, and it should be remembered that the most sure way to lose a valuable book is to loan it.

A handwritten signature in black ink, reading "J. Blades". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, sweeping flourish at the end.

Exercises 16 to 20 use the 5 stroke roll in 3/4 time. Practise them initially with the metronome indicating quarter notes (crochets). As the speed of performance is increased, try to achieve a "one beat per bar" feeling. The foregoing remarks apply also to Solo 6.
